

Sophia Streich Amariotaki

Switzerland

After graduating from The Food Technology Department of Thessaloniki in Greece, she obtained her Master Degree at the Reading University in England. During her studies and throughout her professional career, she focused on projects dealing with olive oil technology and quality.

As a Research Assistant at R.S.S.Ltd, in Reading England she was responsible for the Authenticity Analysis tests for fats and oils of the Lipids Department; Worked as a freelance consultant and founder of Elaionsophie, spreading knowledge and word of excellence in the olive oil sector.

A former professional taster of ONAOO and occasionally taught at the English sessions of the tasting courses.

Currently, a partner and Quality Advocate of evoo ag olive oil competence center in Switzerland.

She has participated as a taster in London Olive Oil competition 2016 and London Olive Oil competition 2017.

Her aim is to link cultural heritage through a multidisciplinary approach involving gastronomy, science, technology, and sustainability.

She lives in Geneva, Switzerland.

Certificate

Food Technology Department of Thessaloniki in Greece

Master Degree at the Reading University in England